Product Description

Urban Construction Slag Dongfeng 8*4 Dump Truck with 351 450hp Diesel Engine

Product features:

Structural strength: The compartment is usually made of high-strength steel with good load-bearing capacity and durability. The frame and the longitudinal beam of the compartment are welded with high-quality manganese plates to withstand heavy loads and bumpy transportation conditions.

Versatility: Dump trucks can be customized according to different working requirements, including different lengths and widths of the cabin, different types of lifting systems, etc.

Product advantages:

Adapt to complex terrain: The design of dump trucks usually takes into account stability and durability, so that they can operate stably in relatively rugged terrain, suitable for mines, construction sites and other environments.

Optimize the transportation process: Dump trucks are often used in conjunction with other construction machinery such as excavators and loaders to form a complete loading and unloading transportation production line, optimizing the entire construction or production process.

Product usage:

Urban construction and road construction: Dongfeng dump trucks are responsible for road construction, garbage removal and building material transportation in urban construction projects.

Agricultural production: In the agricultural field, Dongfeng dump trucks can be used for the harvesting and transportation of crops, providing convenience for farmers.
