Product Description

Product features:

Equipped with an intelligent interconnection system, it can realize real-time data interaction between the vehicle and the cold chain management center, and receive timely instructions for transport tasks and adjusting temperature settings. The compartment is made of high-strength and corrosion-resistant aluminum alloy, which is light in weight and has superior corrosion resistance, prolonging the service life of the vehicle. The refrigeration unit is equipped with intelligent fault diagnosis function, which can quickly detect the fault point and provide detailed fault report, which is convenient for maintenance personnel to repair in time.

Product usage:

Serving the intelligent management system of large cold chain logistics enterprises, realizing efficient scheduling and accurate transportation through intelligent interconnection. Cold chain transportation is carried out in harsh environments such as coastal high humidity, high salt environment and around garbage disposal sites, and the aluminum alloy carriages are fearless of corrosion. When the vehicle breaks down, the maintenance personnel will quickly investigate and repair according to the fault diagnosis report, reducing the vehicle downtime and guaranteeing the transportation task.

Product advantages:

Intelligent interconnection improves the efficiency of enterprise operation and management and optimizes the allocation of resources.

Aluminum alloy compartment reduces vehicle weight, improves fuel efficiency, and is highly durable.

Intelligent fault diagnosis shortens maintenance time and improves vehicle availability.
