Product Description

Product features:

Isuzu refrigerated truck compartments are made of high-strength steel frame, covered with lightweight composite materials, which not only ensures the compartments are sturdy and durable, but also reduces the weight of the body and improves the fuel economy.

The refrigeration unit has an intelligent energy-saving function, which can automatically adjust the refrigeration power according to the temperature inside the compartment and the external environment to reduce energy consumption.

Reversing camera and radar system are installed to facilitate accurate operation of the driver when loading and unloading goods and improve operational safety.

Product usage:

Suitable for long-distance cold chain logistics transportation, strong and lightweight compartments reduce transportation costs, intelligent energy-saving refrigeration unit saves fuel.

When loading and unloading goods in logistics parks, warehouses and other places, the reversing camera and radar assist the driver to operate and improve operational efficiency.

Transportation of raw materials and finished products for food processing plants, to ensure the cold chain needs of the food production supply chain.

Product advantages:

Reasonable carriage material matching reduces operation cost and improves economic efficiency.

Intelligent energy-saving refrigeration unit reduces energy consumption, in line with the concept of sustainable development.

Reversing assistance system improves operational safety and reduces the risk of accidents.
